National Conference of Civil Society in Albania

On December 4, 2020, the National Resource Center for Civil Society in Albania organised the National Conference of Civil Society in Albania.

The conference brought together over 130 representatives of civil society organizations, networks and civil society activists, as well as representatives of state institutions, donors and international organizations, to discuss issues related to the development of the sector and its role in policy-making, strengthening of democracy and in social economic development of the country.

In her greeting speech Ms. Ariola Agolli, Program Director for Partners Albania and Resource Center Manager emphasized that: "In this second year of its activity, the Resource Center comes with an increased and more consolidated role in the sector as a civil society platform at the national level, supporting sector capacity building, strengthening political dialogue and advocacy efforts for an enabling environment and beyond. The support of the Center is an important strategic investment in support of the non-profit sector in the country, not simply and only in the context of strengthening the latter for its role in strengthening democracy, the rule of law, economic development, social inclusion and as service provider, but also as a supporter of political dialogue closely related to the agenda of European integration and its advancement."

The conference was greeted by H.E. Mr. Luigi Soreca, Head of the Delegation of the European Union to Albania who during his speech said: "Civil society involvement in policy-making is essential but currently unsatisfactory in Albania. Public authorities should ensure the participation of civil society in reform processes. Important efforts are still needed to have effective consultation processes with civil society before legislation is adopted. Consultation that are not done consistently and coherently, may compromise the quality of new laws and future steps in the accession process".

Organised in two main sessions, in the introductory panel, the conference provided an overview of the sector development on three aspects:

- (1) The shrinking space for civil society, enabling environment and the role of sector in the path toward EU Accession
- (2) Rule of Law, democracy and participation in policy making and legislative processes
- (3) Fundamental rights, freedom of expression and media followed by 3 thematic discussions, further exploring the main problems, challenges and perspectives of the issues presented as part of the previous introductory panel.

During the second session of the Conference "Open Space Discussion" participants discussed in 8 thematic workshops, on issues proposed by the organizations themselves at the conference. The workshops were led by the proposing organizations aiming to generate discussion in the sector and exploring together ways of collaborations to advance issues and dialogue with institutions and other actors.

At the end of the conference, a document was drafted with summaries of presentations and discussions in panels, as well as discussions and recommendations in groups and thematic workshops.

The document was widely shared with all stakeholders involved in the conference and other actors at the center of the discussions, as well as with other stakeholders and the general public.

In the following, based on it, will be discussed with other actors and institutions to follow up on issues raised and recommendations given.

EU TACSO publishes “Assessment of the Needs for Enabling Environment and Civil Society Capacities of the Western Balkans and Turkey” for the period 2018-2019

ASSESSMENT
State of the Enabling Environment and Capacities of Civil Society against the Guidelines for EU support to Civil Society in Enlargement Region, 2014-2020 for the period 2018-2019

Trends of the rise of populism and the shrinking civic space are apparent throughout Europe and the world, including in the Western Balkans and Turkey. Consequently, fundamental freedoms, especially freedom of assembly and expression, are increasingly under threat. In some cases, especially North Macedonia, have seen improvements. Out in Serbia, for example, the civic space is widely shrinking, while Turkey is still grappling with the aftermath of the state of emergency, in summer and based on findings stemming from this assessment, it can be concluded that in general terms, Albania, Kosovo¹ and North Macedonia would receive a positive assessment, while Turkey, Serbia and, to some extent, Bosnia and Herzegovina would receive a negative assessment, with leaving Montenegro in the middle. In all of the beneficiaries, fundamental freedoms are guaranteed by legislation and these guarantees are mostly in line with international standards. In practice, however, the extent to which these rights has been deteriorating.

Of the three fundamental freedoms that were included in the assessment, FREEDOM OF ASSOCIATION HAS BEEN THE LEAST AFFECTED

| Country | Number of CSOs | Per IPA Beneficiary |
|------------|----------------|---------------------|
| Albania | 11,426 | 10,654 |
| Macedonia | 10,171 | 10,654 |
| Serbia | 27,263 | 32,948 |
| Montenegro | 134,816 | 5,669 |

COMMON REGIONAL CHALLENGES

- violations of basic rights and fundamental freedoms
- emergence of GONGOS and PONGOS
- lack of transparency in state funding for CSOs
- absence of high-quality dialogues between civil society and public institutions, and CSOs' lack of influence on decision-making processes
- tax legislation that is not "CSO friendly"
- lack of (publicly accessible) official data on CSOs

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Regional support through EU TACSO 3 should complement existing resources and should focus on addressing the gaps identified
- The EU Civil Society Guidelines should be strengthened and used as a regular mechanism for monitoring and motivating IPA Beneficiaries to improve the situation
- Funding approaches and models should be assessed with the political goals of supporting a conducive environment for civil society development

The European Commission has published the 2020 Enlargement Package

The Albanian 2020 Report highlights that no progress has been made on the implementation of the roadmap on an enabling environment for civil society.

The Law on the National Council for Civil Society needs to be amended to reflect changes in ministerial portfolios and provide for appropriate representation in the Council.

Substantial efforts are needed to ensure meaningful and systematic consultations with civil society as part of an inclusive policy dialogue for reforms. These efforts should involve comprehensive feedback and follow up mechanisms.

The financial sustainability of civil society organisations remains a challenge due to unfavorable fiscal and legal frameworks.

The Report also highlights the role of Albanian civil society and provision of rapid first response during the post-earthquake emergency in November 2019 and again in the course of the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic reaching out to most vulnerable and remote citizens, supporting and complementing state interventions.

“Establishment of Social Enterprises in Confiscated Assets from the Organized Crime” - Practical Guide

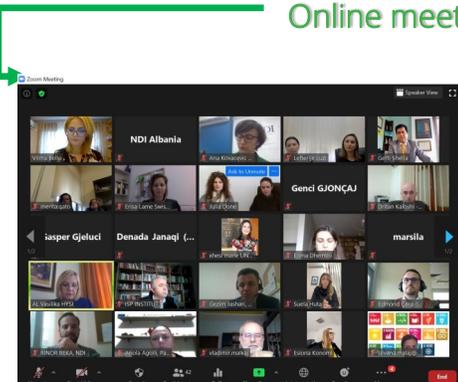

Confiscated assets from organized crime are an important resource for the territory where they are located. Returning illegally acquired property to the community for use in social purposes is an effective strategy in the joint fight against organized crime.

The management of these assets by civil society organizations and the opportunity to transform them into spaces where necessary economic and social activities take place at the same time, directly affects the well-being of the community through the production of goods and services and the generating of employment opportunities. This practical guide developed by Partners Albania based on the first experience in the country of reusing the confiscated assets from organized crime in support to all NPOs in their efforts to develop a social enterprise.

Through a practical and concrete approach, the Guide provides the necessary steps that organizations should follow in undertaking such initiatives, the responsible institutions, relevant legal framework, examples of successful entrepreneurship initiatives, etc.

2019 CSO Sustainability Index, Albania

In November, USAID CSO Sustainability Index \(CSOSI\) 2019 for Albania was published. According to the findings, the overall sustainability of the Albanian civil society sector did not change in 2019.

Financial sustainability continues to be the weakest dimension of CSO sustainability that continues to be accompanied by a lack of resource diversification, high dependence on international donors, and lack of access to public funds. The report issued by the Institute for Democracy and Mediation acknowledge the contribution of the National Resource Centre as an important infrastructure in helping the development of the CSO sector in Albania, with its wide territorial coverage through the two regional offices. During its two years' of activity, the Center counts over 250 activities in increasing the CSOs, networks and CSOs groups capacity and facilitate a series of advocacy initiatives in the frame of an enabling environment for the development of civil society.
